

SOUTHEASTERN ETHICS AND PHILOSOPHY OF TECHNOLOGY WORKSHOP

HOSTED BY THE VIRGINIA TECH STS PROGRAM AND UNC CHARLOTTE CENTER FOR PROFESSIONAL AND APPLIED ETHICS

SEPT. 19, 2015

Note: Sessions are expected to run for 45-50 minutes (20ish minutes/speaker), followed by a 10-15 short break between. Feel free to shift around or take a break if you need to during the day.

9:30: Welcome and Introductions

10am - Session 1

- Andrew Garnar, Clemson, "George Herbert Mead and How to Reconstruct 'Timeless Time'"
- Ashley Shew, VT, "New Legs and Old Skills"

11am - Session 2

- Phillip McReynolds, UNCC, "Outline for a Posthumanist Ethics of Technology"
- Michael Glawson, USC, "Welcome to Dystopia, or Dystopia is now"

Noon - Session 3

- Samantha Fried, VT, "Remote Sensing: Seeing and Obscuring"
- Marleen Eijkholt, Davidson, "Emerging imaging technologies: Cracking brains and health systems"

12:45: Lunch & Informal Discussion Time

SOUTHEASTERN ETHICS AND PHILOSOPHY OF TECHNOLOGY WORKSHOP

HOSTED BY THE VIRGINIA TECH STS PROGRAM AND UNC CHARLOTTE CENTER FOR PROFESSIONAL AND APPLIED ETHICS

SEPT. 19, 2015

2pm - Session 4

- Robert Rosenberger, GT, "Against Anti-Homeless Design"
- Dylan Wittkower, ODU, "Technology and Discrimination"

3pm - Session 5

- Kuan-Hung Lo, VT, "'Marie Lin's gene research, national identity and controversy"
- Tom Staley, VT, "Ethics and Quantitative Reasoning: Issues in Viewing the World Through Mathematics"

4pm - Session 6

- HunYin Tsai, VT, "Stem Cell Cross-Cultural Ethics"
- George Khushf, USC, "Engineering Emergent Risk"

5pm Handshakes, High Fives, and Discussion