

Philosophy Department Colloquium

The Ethics and Politics of Curiosity

What are the ethical stakes of practicing curiosity? And, when that practice is recognized as not only individual but collective, how do those ethical stakes change? What would it mean to responsibly engage in curiosity together?

Dr. Perry Zurn

Perry Zurn is Assistant Professor of Philosophy at American University and Curiosity Fellow with the University of Pennsylvania's Center for Curiosity.

UNC CHARLOTTE
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY

Winningham 107

Monday, April 16th

2:00-3:15PM

The Department of Philosophy
The University of North Carolina at Charlotte
<https://philosophy.uncc.edu/>